San Lorenzo High forward Ali Farugbey drove in for a layup in the fourth period to cut the lead to one point against San Leandro on Friday night, but the Pirates held off the Rebel rally.

San Leandro (13-4) kept cool under pressure on the Rebels home court and walked away with a 63-56 win.

“I have faith in my team,” said San Leandro guard Dejon Budreaux. “We practice that every day, making free throws and playing under pressure.”

Budreaux led the game with 21 points. He played well on defense, too, with five steals and seven rebounds.

Budreaux also made several assists, feeding the ball in to forwards Stephen Johnson and Osi Nwachuke, helping Johnson score 8 points in the game.
