Deputies responded to numerous 911 calls of shots fired around 3:15 p.m. on the corner of Delano Street and Kent Avenue in Ashland, according to Sgt. J.D. Nelson of the Alameda County Sheriff's Department.

When officers arrived, they found the man, whose identity is not being released, laying on the street outside a market with several gunshot wounds.

"There are no suspects or known motives at this time," said Nelson.

This is the third shooting in the unincorporated area so far in September. The other two victims both died of their injuries.
